

NEW GENERAL STATUTES.

The Sun has been furnished with the following information regarding the new General Statutes, for which we are indebted to Hon. J. C. B. Koonce of Sumterville, member of the Revision Committee. Mr. Koonce says:

"My attention has been called to the fact that the Governor's proclamation on the General Statutes of Florida bears date of Nov. 1st, which will make the new book effectual December 1st. In view of the fact that the book has not yet been thoroughly distributed over the State, I think it might be of interest to the profession and those who may have occasion to use the book to give some information which will enable them to more readily familiarize themselves with the work.

"In the first place, the general plan of the book is the same as that of the Revised Statutes of '92, which it supersedes. For the convenience of the bar of the State in comparing the work and making reference, the Revision Commissioners adopted the plan of following each section of the new book with the section number of the same matter in the Revised Statutes. For example, following the figures 2250, which indicates that section of the General Statutes, appear in parentheses the figures (1773). This indicates that Section 1773 of the Revised Statutes of 1892 is brought forward in the General Statutes as Section 2250. The words and figures on the margin of the page opposite this section give the original act from which the section was compiled in the Revised Statutes of '92, to wit, Sec. 2, of Ch. 3129, Acts of 1879. Every section which is taken from any act subsequent to the Revised Statutes of 1892 is so noted on the margin opposite the section; for example, Section 1742 was taken from Section 1 of Chapter 5124, acts of 1903. Where no reference is given on margin of page or by figures in parentheses it indicates that it is a section added by the Revisors (adopted, of course, by the Legislature of 1905). For instance, Section 1421 is a section added in this way, and this section should be noted by the bar of the State, as it is one requiring duplicate pleadings.

"Sometimes we changed the wording of a section, and in such cases the attention of the reader is called by the word 'Revised' in the margin. An example of this is Section 3633. Sometimes two or more acts are consolidated, and this is also noted in the margin, as, for example, Section 8387, being Section 2 of Chapter 4349, Acts of 1895, and Sec. 2 of Chapter 4190, Acts of 1893.

"Wherever a section of the Revised Statutes of '92 has been amended by a subsequent act of the Legislature it is so noted in margin; for example, Section 3410, this law was Section 2517 of Revised Statutes and it was amended by Sec. 1 of Chapter 4531, Acts 1897. Of course the same plan was followed where an act of the Legislature subsequent to the Revised Statutes was amended at a still later session of the Legislature, as, for example, Section 3752 is Section 5 of Chapter 5251, Acts of 1903, as amended by Chapter 5427, Acts of 1905.

"By keeping these things in mind it will be easy for anyone to note changes made in the laws and soon become as familiar with the General Statutes as with the old Statutes. The name General Statutes was adopted by the Legislature in order that the book might be easily distinguished from the Revision of '92. This book is necessarily a large one, containing 4,175 sections, besides the Constitution of the State and the United States, an appendix of the Acts of 1906 of a general and permanent nature not contained in the body of the work, with the index to same, and the General Index of nearly 300 pages.

"Those who wish the work in two volumes can purchase of the Secretary of the State the unbound volumes for $3.50. These they will find in two parts, the Constitution, and first, second and third divisions being in first part, and fourth and fifth divisions, the appendix and index in the second part. These can be bound separately, making the cost of the book only about one dollar more than the price the State will get for the bound volume ($5.00).

"As this book contains all the laws of Florida down to date, with copious annotations of the supreme court's construction of the same, it ought to be in the hands of every man in the State, that he might become acquainted with the Statute law of his State. The books can be had of Hon. H. Clay Crawford, Secretary of the State, Tallahassee, at $3.50 for the unbound and $5.00 for the bound volumes."

House Painting Problem.

"Since we've moved to Jersey and lived in a wooden house," said the bride, "I've evolved a new theory as to house painting. I'm thinking of writing a book, 'Every Man His Next Door Neighbor's House Painter.' I think red with cream trimmings is the prettiest color for a house surrounded with green grass and trees, and we've had our house at Fusilade painted that way. The neighbors, we find, all agree that it is hideous. Now, why should I, who comparatively seldom get a view of the outside of my own house, be allowed to inflict a nightmare on those who regard it as such, yet have to gaze at it by the hour perhaps? My next door neighbor, a poor, pallid invalid who ought to rejoice in red, loathes it, yet is obliged to see our house every time she looks from the sitting room where she spends her dreary life, while I, in turn, from the windows of my sewing room have to look directly at the cold, inhospitable gray of their house, which gives me the blues. We could enjoy their house if it were painted to suit us, and they could enjoy ours if it were according to their taste, so I'm going to start a reform, and everybody shall paint not his own house, but his next door neighbor's."—New York Press.

WORMS

"I had for years suffered from what medical men called Dyspepsia and Catarrh of the Stomach. In August I purchased a box of Cascarets and was surprised to find that I 'had 'em'—yes—a wiggle, squirming mass left me. Judge my surprise when I showed him thirty feet, and in another day the remainder about the same length of a tape worm that had been sapping my vitality for years. I have enjoyed the best of health ever since. I trust this testimonial will appeal to other sufferers."—Chas. Blackstock, 1315 Divinity Place, West Philadelphia, Pa.
